Lack Of Unity Causes German Cabinet To Quit

Marx-Stresemann Ministers Resign When Coalition Fails to Materialize
EBERT CONSULTS LEADERS
Nationalists Refuse to Accept Dawes Plan Without Reservations

By Associated Press
Berlin—Germany Tuesday was in throes of another governmental crisis through the resignation Monday night of the Marx-Stresemann cabinet, and President Ebert was expected to consult the various party leaders as soon as the Reichstag reconvened with a view to solution of the difficulty. Chancellor Marx is continuing to conduct business as the president's request and it is understood that the whole affair may result merely in a realignment of the ministry, with Marx still in power.

The president, in conformity with parliamentary usage, is expected to summon Dr. Hergt, National leader, and ask him to attempt formation of a government. The Nationalists however, are believed to have eliminated themselves from serious consideration through their advocacy for the chancellor's post of admiral Von Tirpitz, notorious advocate of "ruthless" U-boat warfare, and their refusal to accept the Dawes reparation report without reservations.

COALITION FAILURE
The government's resignation resulted from a breakdown of the long drawn out attempts to construct a straight bourgeois coalition which could work with the Reichstag as composed on the basis of the recent election. The Nationalists refused to meet the middle parties' conditions calling for endorsement of the Marx government's policy, a program of formation of such a bourgeois coalition. Instead, they renewed their demands on Von Tirpitz' behalf and stipulated that the question of foreign and international policies be made a secondary point in the negotiations.

These stipulations were embodied in a resolution adopted at a lengthy Nationalist caucus Monday but the middle parties refused to accept this stipulation, and the cabinet resignation followed.

Chancellor Marx is credited with the intention of presenting a reconstructed ministry to the Reichstag making a declaration of policy with regard to the Dawes report and leaving the decision to the deputies.

DEMOCRATS USE LAFOLLETTE TO GAIN SUPPORT

McAdoo Managers Claim Badger Will Withdraw If Their Man Is Nominated
GUARANTEE STILL LACKING
Radicals and Democratic Party Have Much in Common in Recent Months

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by The Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—The latest bit of campaign strategy affecting the selection of a Democratic presidential nominee is interwoven with Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin. The McAdoo managers have started to spread the impression that if their leader is nominated, the Wisconsin senator will not run independently.

So far as can be determined from the LaFollette camp, there is absolutely no guarantee that the senator will eliminate himself even if the Democrats nominate a man to his liking. But the railroad brotherhoods and their henchmen are quietly interesting themselves in the campaign and would do anything in their power to bring about the nomination of the former director general of railroads who was kind to them when he was in office. There would be no harm, it is reasoned, in backing McAdoo at least up to the time of the Democratic convention, for the decision by LaFollette does not have to be made until the Cleveland conference of July 4, when leaders of the Farm-Labor group will meet to discuss their plan of campaign.

WORK TOOTH AND NAIL
The late of the Howell-Barkley bill in congress will have much to do with their attitude toward the Republican party and President Coolidge. To date the administration leaders have worked tooth and nail to prevent the measure from coming to a vote while a coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans in the house have upset the rules in forcing consideration.

On the whole it is more natural for the radicals to support the Democratic rather than Republican ticket this time for in practically all the important issues, the radicals and Democrats have worked together. The tax bill is their creation and farm legislation probably will come out of their united strategy. In a sense the Democrats have become the radical party and they will go to the polls largely on the record made by their representatives in congress during the past few months.

SMITH RECORD IS PROGRESSIVE
Speaking of radicals and progressives, the friends of Governor Al Smith are eager to know since when he can not be classed as a progressive. His record as governor has been progressive and Senator Wheeler of Montana talked of his vice president—and Senators Walsh of Montana and Glass of Virginia. They all class themselves as progressives though some of them might go slow about tying up to LaFollette.

The next move must come from Senator LaFollette if he intends to influence the Democratic convention but the chances are he will remain silent until after he has gone through the motions at least trying to reform his own party at the convention which is to nominate President Coolidge. He will have ten days or more in which to speak then before the Democratic national convention begins its sessions.

Breaks Arm But Takes Part In Senior's Play

Howard Menzer, Appleton high school senior, went through his part in the senior play at Appleton theatre on Monday evening in spite of the pain of a recently broken arm. Menzer was practicing for a jump event at the high school field meet at Pierce park on Monday afternoon when he fell and broke his left arm. As soon as it was set, the young man decided to go on with his part in the play in the evening and when he came on the stage with one arm in a sling people thought it was a part of the character which he was portraying.

He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Menzer, 852 Hancock st.

SUSPECT HELD FOR SLAYING OF FRANKS BOY

Man Known As George Johnson Arrested Driving Gray Automobile
By Associated Press
Chicago—Arrest of a man known as George Johnson—the name signed to the ransom letter received by Jacob Franks demanding $10,000 for the return of his son, Robert, 12, driving a gray automobile, was the latest development in the investigation Tuesday of the kidnapping and death of the boy. The prisoner was driving the same make of automobile which was seen near the private school attended by young Franks at the time he started home from school.

The prisoner lives in the Hyde Park district where the Franks family lives. Search for the typewriter on which the ransom letter was typed and for the clothing of the boy still was being continued Tuesday. Hearing was to be held Tuesday afternoon on application for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of two instructors at the private school who have been detained by the police for questioning last Saturday.

The prisoner known as a Johnson although his name is Adolph Papitz said he was not surprised by his arrest. "I expected it; everybody with a gray car is being taken in," the suspect said.

He said he knew nothing of the Franks case, that his parents live in Akron, O., and that he was about to leave on a trip to Iowa. On the afternoon of the kidnapping last Wednesday, he said, he was motoring with a young woman whose name he did not know.

EMERGENCY BOARD APPROVES FUNDS

By Associated Press
Madison—By a vote of 2 to 1 the state emergency board Tuesday approved emergency appropriations for state normal schools totaling $115,000, the funds to cover expenses of the schools for the remainder of the school year. Secretary of State Zimmerman voted against the fund, expressing the same stand as he did previous to the supreme court action in which he was ordered to set up emergency funds voted by Governor Blaine and state treasurer Levitan.

HIRST QUILTS TO CAST HAT IN STATE RING

Controversy Over Highway Program of Wisconsin Takes New Turn
WILL OPPOSE GOVERNOR
New Candidate Accuses Executive of Acting Only for Personal Gain

By Associated Press
Madison—The controversy over Wisconsin's highway program took an entirely new turn when A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer since 1911, announced his resignation to become a candidate for governor against Governor John J. Blaine.

The announcement by Hirst came unexpectedly Tuesday as result of recent communications from Governor Blaine demanding reductions in highway expenditures and changes in the highway department. Difficulties between the highway department and Governor Blaine have been evident for some time.

"Nothing but an emergency fraught with the greatest possibilities of evil for Wisconsin and her people could justify me in taking this step," Mr. Hirst declared in the announcement of his candidacy for the governorship. "Such an emergency does, in fact, exist."

Mr. Hirst charges Governor Blaine with efforts to build up a "political machine devoted to advancing his personal political fortunes," with having sought and obtained control "for political purposes" of the state civil service commission, the insurance and prohibition department, board of control and other divisions of the state government.

ACCUSES GOVERNOR
The present executive is carrying out a deliberately conceived plan of building the state government into a political machine devoted to advancing his personal political fortunes," Mr. Hirst declared. "In the process he already has impaired the efficiency, lowered the morale and almost wrecked many state departments and institutions. However, he has gained his end in another way, and every civil service employee in the state has reason to fear his power. Since 1921 the prohibition department has been his for all purposes. The state insurance department, the teacher's pension fund, the game wardens of the state and other departments have likewise been brought under his domination."

Regarding Governor Blaine's recent statements on the state highway department, Mr. Hirst declares: "The governor desires, for his own political ends, the control of these large highway organizations and of the millions of the taxpayers' money which they expend. He purposes to make the highway forces a political machine and the highway program of Wisconsin and its counties a political asset."

Upwards of 75 Persons Said to Be Badly Injured with List Growing

BABY IS CARRIED AWAY
Entire Families Are Wiped Out And Parts of Towns Are Levelled

By Associated Press
Atlanta, Ga.—A series of cyclones and tornadoes sweeping through Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana Monday night and early Tuesday took a known toll of 35 lives and caused injury to upwards of 70 persons and wrought thousands of dollars damage to farms and buildings, according to advices reaching here Tuesday from various sections of these states.

In Mississippi there were known to be dead 17, and the list of injured stood at 50, early Tuesday after several storms had torn through the southern section of the state, centering its fury around Collins, where two young girls are reported to have lost their lives, 12 injured, many seriously, and virtually the entire business district wiped away. The storm also struck Joinsburg, Station, Vicksburg and Greenville. Late Monday and Tuesday another twister, swooped down in the vicinity of Bay Springs, and Collins, causing reports of deaths and injury to several families living in that region.

Other communities in Mississippi in which deaths were reported included Swain Plantation near Greenville, where three Negroes were killed, and dozens of others injured; Union, eight injured; Waynesboro, several Negroes killed and Summitt, which is said to have suffered heavy property loss.

ALABAMA LOSES HEAVILY
Early reports from Alabama placed that state as the next heaviest sufferer from the storm. There were reported dead at the Owens mining community near Empire, and in Walker and the list of injured, however, stood around 15. Three families were reported annihilated in the little mining community. Seven members of the family of Billy Robbins were killed and Mrs. John Hays and a young woman named Abbot lost their lives there, John Hays being perhaps fatally injured. Reports reaching here from Athens place the number of dead at seven in the Ellamont neighborhood, the family of Will Collins having been killed and a baby two years old blown completely away.

In Louisiana, Vester Carr is thought to be fatally injured, having been struck by lightning late Monday during a heavy rainstorm there.

Reports continue to come in fragmentarily and it is feared the death toll and the list of injured will reach greater proportions as more definite advices are available when telephone and telegraph communication has been restored.

Patterson Co. Shop Is Damaged By Fire

Loss Which May Reach $10,000 Caused by Blaze in Basement—Fire Starts Near Oil Burning Furnace

Fire causing damage of $5,000 to $10,000 broke out in the basement of the W. S. Patterson company plumbing store on College-ave at about 5:30 Tuesday morning, and although firemen had it under control and practically extinguished within an hour, the blaze started up afresh and burned worse than ever. The loss is covered by insurance.

The building, which is located at 757 College-ave, was being remodelled to convert the first floor into a display room and the second floor into offices. The second floor is practically intact and business is being conducted from there.

The cause of the fire has not been determined with absolute certainty, but since the blaze burned strongest around the oil burning furnace, it is conjectured that the fire started there. Several bales of paper and a quantity of loose paper in the basement also were burning strongly.

FOUND AT 5:30
Workmen had been engaged in tearing off the plaster on the first floor. Some of the officers of the company had been at the shop late Monday evening, and there was no indication of a fire.

Firemen were called to the shop at 5:30 in the morning and found the place black with smoke. Holes were chipped into the first floor so as to run cellar pipes with steam spreading nozzles into the basement.

Baboons Enjoy Jazz Strains; Sax Riles Bear

By Associated Press
Los Angeles, Calif.—Playing a waltz puts a tiger to sleep, lions come nearest to laughing when they listen to a saxophone, and baboons are almost human in their weakness for jazz, say zoologists and students from several southern California universities and colleges have deduced. The scientists, in a motion picture zoo here with a noisy orchestra and carried on numerous experiments to obtain accurate data on the reaction certain principles of music might be expected to produce in various kinds of animals.

While professors and students took notes, the musicians ran the gamut of melody from lullabies to jazz tunes. Inside the cages the following results were observed:

Jazz numbers: Angered the tigers, the baboons danced to a tune built up on a once prevalent scarcity of bananas, a brown bear went into a tantrum when confronted with a meaning saxophone, an elephant ignored the orchestra, an ensemble shield at the bass viola, trumpeted at the roll of a drum but appeared immensely pleased with the trombone.

SIX LIVES LOST WHEN HOTEL IN NEWARK IS BURNT
Can of Disinfectant Ignited by Cigarette Thought to Be Cause of Fire
By Associated Press
Newark, N. J.—Six men are known to have died in a fire Tuesday which destroyed the Windsor hotel on Halcyon-st. Firemen said other bodies probably were in the debris. The hotel housed 100 men Monday night.

A policeman reported seeing three men come to a fire escape door, only to be enveloped in flames. The hotel is a four-story frame structure with fire shops on the street floor. A dense black smoke which rolled up from the start hampered firemen.

BAPTIST PASTOR SLAPS MODERNISM

Former Russian Missionary Tells of Progress Among Soviets

Milwaukee—Fundamentalists attending the second session of Baptist Bible union here Tuesday heard a scathing denunciation of modernist education in American theological seminaries and colleges in the address of Pastor William Fetter, founder of the First Baptist church at Peris, Persia, and general director of the Russian Missionary society. Chicago After his banishment from Russia by the late Czar Nicholas, the Rev. Fetter declared he became identified with work among Russian war prisoners and with the education of Russian religious students. In his later work in America, he said, he was many modernist educators and his contacts with them were such that he founded the Russian missionary society in protest to their creeds.

Sheik Of Appleton Wants His Hair To 'Smell Nice'

Since Valentino started the hearts of many girls to somersaulting boys who would like to have the same effect on their lady friends have tried and used everything the drug stores sell to look like the sheik of the silver screen. Not the least of these is the hair groom or hair paste, which makes the hair look sleek and greasy and causes it to glow and glisten. But the girls, although they failed to appreciate the efforts of the boys, decided to use something to keep their own locks plastered tight to the scalp and thus it is that the market is crowded with hair-gloss, hair shine, hair paste, hair groom, hair smooth and a half a dozen other commodities whose properties are like shellac and varnish.

But, the sad part of it is that the boys don't stick to the masculine hair pastes, they favor the brilliantine and bandoline that the girls use. It has a pleasant smell, it is a liquid and applied easily and it does the work, what more could anyone ask? While some of the girls apply the liquids to shingle bobs to keep the hair smooth, most of them use the brilliantine in marceling or curling the hair as it makes it more manageable.

THEY'RE ALL ALIKE
There is no distinction between the boy from the country and the boy from the city, because they all are anxious to look like a screen star. According to E. A. Schmalz of Downer Drug store, there are more calls for liquid hair grooms than for the paste. This includes the boys.

THE PRESIDENT SURRENDERS

Mr. Coolidge has signed the immigration bill containing the offensive Japanese exclusion section. His action is a disappointment to those who place principle
above expediency and statesmanship
above politics. The president makes out a plausible case for himself, but to do this he abandons a position that only a few weeks ago he adopted on the specific contention that it was right.

In the first place, president Coolidge deserts his secretary of state. He sacrifices the one preeminent authority on international law, the one conspicuous figure of his administration given to defining foreign policies in terms of national honor, to the truculent and unscrupulous opposition of Henry Cabot Lodge. It is a clear case of yielding national dignity
and duty to the dictates of disreputable politics, and nothing else can be made of it.

Mr. Hughes, before the Hanihari incident, took his stand squarely in opposition to the exclusion of Japanese as proposed in the immigration act. Mr. Coolidge stood squarely behind his secretary of state. The Hanihari incident did nothing to alter Mr. Hughes' position, nor that of the president. Both so expressed themselves. Mr. Hughes has not abated his view one jot. Mr. Coolidge endeavored not to do so, and went to great extremes to induce and even force
congress to defer application of the exclusion clause until 1925, but in the end he surrendered.

The president's course does not reflect
that high degree of character and statesmanship which his chief admirers are wont to ascribe to him. It is not a credit to the dignity of the United States, nor
to the capacity and prestige of executive leadership. It is true that congress is the sole judge of domestic questions, as affected by legislation, and that immigration in its broad aspect is a domestic question. Nevertheless, there are phases of immigration which all nations have regarded as international and as best dealt with through diplomacy. We have recognized this fact in our relations with Japan and up to this time we have handled this delicate subject in a manner altogether satisfactory to reasonable citizens of both nations. It would have been better to make an exclusion treaty, or
one that accomplished the same purpose
under another name, than to give this needless offense to Japan. Another year of time doubtless would have made the negotiation of such a treaty possible.

The president knew this, and urged it upon congress. Secretary of State Hughes knew it and urged it upon the president. What the president and his secretary of state originally and all along
have held to be right, remains right in spite of what congress has done. If the president and department of state
were right then, the president is wrong
now. Mr. Coolidge may argue until the cows come home that it was his major
duty to respect the wishes of congress
rather than the dictates of his own conscience and the national interests as he and Mr. Hughes interpreted them, but he will convince only those who put politics
ahead of principle. A new immigration law which has waited as long as this one has could wait a few months longer to save national honor. Once more the president has abandoned executive leadership
to senatorial aggression that gradually

but certainly, and in our judgment unwisely, has usurped control in foreign affairs at the expense of the president.

The exclusion of some 240
Japanese annually is what is at stake in the affront congress
foolishly and hysterically gives Japan.
The absurdity of the offense is apparent
on its face. It is a matter of great regret that the president, after so heroically holding out for right and national honor, ended by weakly and tamely submitting to congressional domination. 'It required less courage to stand his ground
on the Japanese issue than on the bonus issue, but apparently courage in both instances was too much to expect. His capitulation is a signal triumph for cheap
politics and cheaper jingoism.

SMOOT AND THE TAX BILL

Senator Smoot made a remarkable speech in the senate Saturday. Negativing all of the contentions of the administration on the subject of tax revision, including the estimates of the treasury department and the statements of President Coolidge himself, the chairman of the senate finance committee admitted that the conference bill passed by the senate and house would result in a surplus of $138,000,000 in 1925 exclusive of the bonus charge, and that including
the bonus charge, there would still be approximately $2,000,000 of surplus. This statement Mr. Smoot made without so much as a blush or apology, in spite of the fact that he himself only a few days ago had predicted, when the Democratic schedules in the tax bill were about to be adopted, that they would result in a treasury deficit of $60,000,000 to $70,000,000,
and the further fact that Secretary Mellon had reiterated time and again the charge that the Simmons schedule would leave a deficit upwards of $100,000,000,
the exact amount of which could be calculated only by a closer analysis of the bill.

There is something wrong somewhere.
We are at a loss to understand so complete a change of administrative front.
for Mr. Smoot must be understood as presented admissions for the government.
We have had various estimates as to the condition of the treasury during the last year, starting with a predicted deficit of somewhere near $800,000,000. It has been presumed that the figures given out by Mr. Mellon on his own tax bill were thorough and entirely reliable. It has also been assumed that his estimates, although necessarily tentative, on the results of the other bills introduced, were approximately correct. Mr. Smoot now says that the estimates of the treasury department were wrong, that they have been completely changed by the fact that the surplus for 1924 will be very much larger than was anticipated.

Are we to infer that this knowledge
and information has come to the government only after congress definitely and finally rejected the Mellon bill and puts up to Mr. Coolidge the alternative of signing or vetoing a measure radically different from that demanded by the secretary of the treasury and supported all along by the president? What becomes of the president's contention that the country cannot afford to pay the soldiers'
bonus? What becomes of the dependability of a secretary of the treasury in whom the country had come to repose the utmost confidence? Whom are we to believe, so far as facts and estimates go,
when legislation of a controversial nature
is before congress?

It is a strange performance. There is something mysterious and discouraging about the whole incident. People may well ask whether the administration was intentionally trying to deceive them or whether it lacks the capacity to intelligently enlighten them. Did the Democrats actually know more about government finances and taxation than the treasury department itself, or did they merely happen to stumble on to a sound tax bill? Certainly an administration which has made as much of an issue of tax revision as has Mr. Coolidge and his secretary of the treasury owes an explanation
to the public for the extraordinary announcement of Senator Smoot.

CHURCH AND PACIFISM

The Methodists at their Baltimore convention wound up their consideration of war by a declaration of comparatively mild pacifism instead of the sweeping resolution offered two weeks ago which pledged members of that faith not to fight
even in self-defense. The kind of pacifism which refuses to fight or to be prepared to fight is the kind that leads to war, not peace. Moreover, it does not promote national security and free institutions. Let those who have been deluded with this kind of sentimentalism apply it to three dates in American history, 1776, 1812 and 1861, and draw their own inferences.

Former Vice President Thomas R. Marshall gave some good advice to the pacifists in a Sunday memorial address to the G. A. R. of Chicago this week which is worth quoting. He said:

If the pacifists had their way then,
(we find by referring to the pre-rebellion days)
the black man would probably be in slavery today. I am for every proposition for preventing war, League of Nations, Harding, Coolidge, Pepper or Lodge court. But in spite of this yellow streak in me, I am not a pacifist.
I don't want to sit quietly here and see every battleship destroyed and every regiment disbanded, and invite the world to come and take the property of the American people. I want peace, but I want America to be in a position to preserve her institutions, homes, civilization and rights.

I have no patience with the man who knows
so little about history as to say that if we make
the slightest preparation to look after ourselves
we are inviting a conflict.

The trouble with America today is there are too many preachers legislating, and too few legislators praying.

We recommend Mr. Marshall's observations to our over-zealous church
friends.

WHAT'S A MURMUR?

Two or three readers, I hope, are by this time
disabused of some of their imaginations about valvular disease or leakage of the heart. And even a greater number now know that the cause of such disease is usually a germ, a very particular kind of germ with a cultivated taste for certain kinds of tissue such as the tissue which lines the heart and the joints. And I earnestly hope that quite a score or more of my constant readers know that this
germ gets into the blood and so reaches the heart
from a focus or nidus of infection in the throat in the majority of cases.
Now, then, let's listen Lester to about twenty or thirty dollars' worth of expert stuff about murmurs.
Every one has heard of murmurs. A murmur is a more or less musical sound heard about the heart.
If it is very loud and musical, that's pretty good evidence that there's nothing the matter with the heart. The most impressive murmurs are heard from the soundest hearts. I don't mean that you have to have a murmur as evidence of a sound heart, but merely that a beautiful murmur is in itself about as insignificant as a "terrible" cough;
there's no telling from the force or volume of a cough whether it is caused by lung disease or irritation in the ear canal. A loud musical murmur is often heard over the heart or just above the level
of the heart in persons with nothing more serious
the matter than a mild anemia. So don't bank on a murmur, ever.

In valvular leakage a murmur is audible when
the leakage is fairly well compensated, that is,
when the heart is pumping more than the ordinary amount of blood, enough more to compensate the amount which leaks back through the damaged
valve at each beat. And when that compensation is lost, that is, when the heart tires or weakens and fails to pump the extraordinary amount of blood
necessary to maintain adequate circulation, then the murmur is likely to disappear. The fact has led to much confusion on the part of the laity and some unjust criticism of physicians, for the murmur
comes and goes as I have explained and so different physicians will give reports seemingly at variance at different times in a given case.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

HARD BOILED AND SOFT.
I understand from one of your articles that raw eggs are harder to digest than cooked eggs, which is a surprise to me. Are steamed eggs easier to digest than raw or cooked eggs? (Mrs. R. M.) Answer.—What I said was that a raw egg is less completely absorbed or digested than a cooked egg,
because there is a ferment-like substance present
in raw egg albumin which seems to prevent complete digestion of the albumin. Cooking, by steam or boiling or any other way, destroys that ferment and coagulates the albumin. Coagulation of the albumen is one stage of the digestive process. A hard boiled egg is as readily digested as a soft-boiled egg, provided you grate it or masticate it so that the digestive juices readily reach every particle of the co-agulated albumin.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Tuesday, May 30, 1899.
(Memorial Day, no paper issued.)

TEN YEARS AGO
Tuesday, May 26, 1914.

G. W. Scott of Rhinelander, formerly of Appleton, was visiting here.
Joseph Winninger and Frank Winninger of Wau-saw, were in Appleton on business.
Mrs. Karl Keller returned from a two weeks'
visit with relatives at Milwaukee.
Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Thiele left for their summer
home at Three Lakes on a several days' visit.
Mrs. Bertin Ramsay was to entertain at a luncheon the following afternoon in honor of her guest, Mrs. Henry Hewitt of Tacoma, Wash.
Mrs. Catherine Loessel of Appleton and Joseph
Scherndick of Clintonville were married at St.
Joseph church.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marston entertained at dinner in honor of Mrs. Dolores Solishaus who with three other members on the high school faculty was about to leave on a European trip.
The Sigma Tau Nu fraternity of Lawrence college was considering the purchase of the J. Austin Hawes residence on Lower College-ave.
Lawrence college was to send 15 men to Ripon
Saturday to the track meet between Lawrence,
Ripon, Carroll, and Beloit colleges.
Chief of Police Michael Garvey and Commissioners H. W. Tutter and John Goodland went to Oshkosh to inspect the city's automobile police patrol.
Owen Cummings, 39, one of the early settlers of Appleton, died the day previous at the home of his daughter at Menasha.

Estimates show 10,000 men will be needed in the wheat belt. What a pity harvesting wheat can't be made as popular as golf.

SEEN, HEARD and IMAGINED

---that's all
there is
to life

"COMING THRU THE RYE"
When a wild and pop-eyed driver
Shoots his auto down the street,
He can make the public hustle,
And go hopping on both feet;
He can make the bravest tremble;
He makes the boldest quail—
Still the female of the species
Is more deadly than the male.
—M. F. S.

"All the world loves a lover, but who the heck cares to see a married couple spoon on a street car! Never trust such a couple."

We know there is one Appleton
school principal who used to consider long hair one of the essentials of teaching. But the news that a bobbed hair teacher is going to let her hair grow out is rather surprising. She was tired of having people come to the classroom and ask which is the teacher, she explained.

The hook and line fishing season will open officially on June 1, but the season of fishing for compliments began with the bobbed hair fad.

We wish that when we drifted into the newspaper game we had tried the weather man's job first. It seems a snap. All you have to do nowadays is predict rain every day.
Once in a while the sun will shine
by accident and the world will praise
you for your mistake.

JUST TO BE FIRST ON THE GROUND, WE PREDICT AN EAR-LY FALL. NOW, IS EVERYBODY
HAPPY?

We got a wire from the weather
man Sunday. "How do you like this nice cool weather you ordered last August?" he asked.

Well, the time will soon be here
when we'll mistake ever and ever so many ladies for boy scouts.

How, now? Were we cheated out of a holiday. The Appleton Volksfreund says that Memorial day will come on April 30.

WELL, ANYHOW, THERE'LL
BE FEWER FLIES TO SWAT THIS YEAR.

On With The Dance
Among the marriage licenses:
William E. Horn, 28.
Bertha Fidler, 28.

We agree, Hank, that into each
life some rain must fall, but you wouldn't have said so much as you did, had you lived through the last two months of weather that we have been afflicted with in Appleton.

You can buy a marriage license at the county clerk's office for $2. It doesn't cost much, it is true, but,
boy! the upkeep!

Degrees Are Given Many U. S. Chiefs

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—Among the few agreeable duties of the United States
presidents is the graceful acceptance of honorary doctor's degrees. It is a poor joke that does not bring at least one LL.D. to the nation's chief executive, and occasionally he is the recipient of three or four. This custom of making doctors of presidents began with Washington and his continued, with but few lapses, ever since, so that while several of our presidents have entered the white house without a college degree, few
have come out without one.
In recent years, of course, American universities have become to lavish in the distribution of honorary degrees that such gifts are losing
some of their prestige glory. Succes-ful business men of today, for example, are often far more decorated than learned scientists and our secretary of commerce, Mr. Hoover, has a collection of scholarly initials about four times as large as that of his chief, President Coolidge, who, so far,
is the owner of LL.D.'s from six American halls of learning—Amherst,
Williams College, Bates College, Wesleyan University, the University of Vermont, and Johns Hopkins university. In the old days, honors of this kind were far more scarce—so scarce
in fact, that even some United States
presidents failed to receive them.

PRINCETON WAS LIBERAL
Princeton leads the list for the highest number of honors bestowed
by any one college or university upon presidents of the United States. It has made doctors of twelve chief executives, although not always at the time they occupied the white house.
Beginning with Thomas Jefferson,
upon whom it conferred an LL.D. in 1791, while he was secretary of state
in Washington's cabinet, it also gave degrees to James Madison, in 1797;
James Monroe, in 1822; John Quincy
Adams, in 1806; James Buchanan, in 1850; Abraham Lincoln, in 1864; Chester Alan Arthur, in 1884; Grover Cleveland, in 1897; Benjamin Harrison,
in 1888; William Howard Taft, in 1912
Woodrow Wilson, in 1910, and Warren G. Harding in 1922.

Harvard follows as a close second,
with eleven presidents on its honor
list, including Washington, John Adams, Jefferson, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Jackson, Grant, Hayes, Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson. Yale comes next, having made doctors of eight presidents—namely, Washington,
Adams, Jefferson, Hayes, Roosevelt,
Taft and Wilson. The University of Pennsylvania and Brown university
have each conferred the same degree
on five presidents. Pennsylvania chose to honor Washington, Garfield, Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, while Brown's list includes Washington,
Adams, Jefferson, Taft and Wilson.
A close study of this list of presidents decorated by our most dignified halls of American learning fails to shed much light on their doctoring
policy. In other words, it is impossible to detect any special rule or reason for their selections. Presidents Roosevelt and Taft are the two presidents whose collection of scholastic honors is the greatest, and the only two presidents to be decorated by universities outside their own country.

NEGLECTED SOME
The first President to be neglected
in this respect was William Henry Harrison, hero of the Indian wars,
who was chosen by the hectic Whigs of log-cabin and hard-cider fame. Harrison, whose parents wanted him to become a physician, studied for a time at Hampden-Sydney college, in Virginia, but the record of his attendance is incomplete. Probably his career as a student was short, as the outbreak of the Indian war caused him to join St. Clair's army at Fort Washington at the early age of 19.
He died so soon after reaching the white house that the colleges had practically no chance to present him
with doctorates.

John Tyler, who succeeded him,
was graduated from William and Mary College in 1836. Although Tyler was a strong and singular personality and an able statesman, his administration was intensely unpopular,
which probably explains why he never received any but his bachelor's degree.

Zachary Taylor was another military hero, who died soon after entering the white house, thereby perhaps cheating the colleges of an appreciated candidate for scholastic honors. Millard Fillmore, who finished Taylor's term, had received very few early educational advantages, owing to the poverty of his family, but he was an earnest student, with more real book-learning and culture than most of our Presidents. His great respect for scholastic education would have made him especially appreciative of an honorary degree, but none
was ever conferred on him.

Of all our 30 chief executives, Andrew Johnson was probably the least educated. Apprenticed to a tailor when he was only ten years old, he never went to school and could neither read nor cipher until after his marriage when his wife taught him. It was not until he came to congress that he succeeded in writing his name
with any facility. Yet Columbia made him a doctor of laws in 1865.

REHEARSING FOR THE GRAND SUMMER FESTIVAL

any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director,
Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to inquiries in the Bureau
which give advice on legal, medical,
and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in

are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Why were some men known in Colonial Days as "chance-ringers"?
What were their duties? E. P. N.

A. This term was applied to the person versed in the art of ringing a peal of bells in a regularly varying order, so that all possible combinations could be made.

Q. How can fly paper be made?
J. K. H.

A. Boil together 1 pound resin, 3 1/2 ounces molasses, 3 1/2 ounces boiled
linseed oil until of proper consistency.
Provide sheets of manila paper of suitable size, spread some of the mixture on half of each sheet, folding
the rest of the sheet over it. Open out when ready for use.

Q. Can a taxi driver make the meter show more or less mileage as he chooses? N. W.

A. It is not possible for an automobile taxicab driver to regulate the meter by which the mileage is registered. There are two parts to a taxicab meter—one is attached to the front wheel which gives the mileage traveled, the other is a clock time attachment which is used when the car is standing. Twenty-two cents is the usual fare charged for the first two fifths of a mile and 10 cents for each after that.

Q. Who is considered the father of English hymns? D. H.

A. Isaac Watts is generally credited with being the father of English
hymody.

Q. What did the smiths of old times
use in their forges before coal was discovered? P. H.

A. Carcoal was the fuel used before coal in forges.

Pythians Going To Green Bay For Degree Contest

Thirty members of the Knights of Pythias will leave at 6:15 Tuesday evening for Green Bay, where Menominee and Antigo degree teams will engage in a contest to determine the championship in third degree work. Pochequette Lodge, Green Bay, will be host to the gathering and is offering a silver cup to be awarded to the winning team. The contest will be held in Turner hall at 8 o'clock. Sometime ago the Menominee lodge issued a challenge to any team in the northwest which was promptly accepted by Antigo. The Menominee team won the championship of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan about a year ago, and the Antigo team is regarded as one of the best in Wisconsin.

Large delegations are expected also from Menominee, Antigo, Wausau, Crandon, Peshtigo, Neenah, Oshkosh, Manitowish, and New London. Approximately 600 are expected. The contest will be judged by the grand officers of Wisconsin and Michigan.

Visited by War Veterans
Friday Morning
Kaukauna—A special meeting of Kaukauna post of the American Legion was held in Legion hall Sunday to make plans for Memorial Day services. A procession of cars will form promptly at 8 o'clock Friday morning and will visit all the cemeteries where appropriate ceremonies will be held after the graves of deceased soldiers have been decorated.
Cards are being mailed to all former service men and it is hoped a large company will turn out in uniform. The committee wishes to provide cars for all Civil war veterans and members of the Women's Relief Corps and has once more issued an appeal to citizens who have automobiles. All who can carry a passenger or two have been requested to call Elliott E. Zeldin at telephone 169-J.
The procession will visit the south side cemeteries first. Services for the unknown dead will be held along the river in front of the new high school instead of on the bridge and from there the cars will proceed over the lower bridges to the north side cemeteries. Arrangements are being made to present a program at the Soldiers' monument on Lawrence. A firing squad composed of World war veterans will fire a volley at each graveyard.
Due to the late spring the matter of providing flowers is becoming a problem. Those who have them, however, are requested to leave them at the home of Mrs. James Conway, 616 Desnoyers or with Mrs. Josephine Edgell, Resume-ave.

News About And For Farmers

ALFALFA IS BEST BET FOR FARMERS TO CUT MILK COSTS

7,000 Acres Seeded to Alfalfa in County This Year, Amundson Estimates

By R. A. AMUNDSON
Alfalfa has been grown in Outagamie County for over twenty years, but until the last two years it has been regarded as a special crop that needed unusual condition and expert care. In the early day that seems to have been more or less the case. Quite a few farmers tried it with little or no success. Those that did succeed have been at it ever since.

The cause of the trouble in the early days may have been poor seed from the southwest or lack of inoculation. However, during the last two years very little trouble has been found in getting a catch and last year which was an exceedingly dry year, the alfalfa was about the only seeding that came through the drought.

This year may be less favorable for it. The spring certainly is, as alfalfa is by nature a dry land plant. Late sowing however, as far as alfalfa is concerned, is not unknown.

WHY ALL THIS ALFALFA?

In the winter of 1923-24 the farmers of this county spent around $400,000 for mill feeds, bran, oil meal, dairy rations, etc. That cut a big hole in the milk checks. This next winter with practically all the new clover seeding gone, the feed problem will be more acute than ever, except for those that have a stand of alfalfa. It seems now that a person is more certain of a catch with alfalfa than with red clover and alfalfa is being tried this spring on a probable amount of 7,000 acres in this county. If that comes through reasonably successful it will be next year the equivalent to well over half of that tremendous feed bill.

Culture for 2,000 acres was handled directly through the county agent's office. A lot was sown with no inoculation and a lot more with commercial cultures. One wholesale dealer sold seed enough within the county to plant over 5,000 acres.

With the South and West taking up dairying to a certain extent, it may mean keen competition in the next few years, and it will be impossible to make milk at a profit from expensive mill feeds, when the western sections can produce alfalfa at times for $5 per ton. Dairy farmers with alfalfa and good silage will in time be almost self supporting, i. e. producing about all the feed on the farm. If they do that the West even with the cheap feed will be in no shape to compete with the well equipped and experienced dairymen of Wisconsin.

GREENVILLE FARMER IS TURNING TO PUREBREDS

Special to Post-Crescent

Greenville—John F. Becher is rapidly developing into an exclusive breeder of purebred farm animals. Mr. Becher has found out that it costs no more to feed a purebred than it does to feed scrub and grade animals and that the profits on purebreds are very satisfactory in comparison. Soon Mr. Becher will have a herd of purebred Guernsey cows.

Highland Tim, a purebred boar, the property of the Outagamie County Chester White Breeders' association is in the care of Mr. Becher.

THREE FARMERS BUILDING SILOS ON THEIR FARMS

Among the building operations in rural districts are the erection of stave silos on the Fred Wagner farm and on the Charles Wagner farm in Center, concrete silo on the William Bergholz farm in Center, a machine shed on the farm of Max Springstroh in Freedom and in addition to the farm home of Harold Glaser of Grand Chute. Mr. Bergholz is building his second silo.

COUNTY CATTLE CONSIGNED TO SALE IN FOND DU LAC

The eighth semi-annual sale of Guernseys will be held in Fond du Lac on Wednesday May 28. To this sale 62 animals will be consigned by 32 breeders of Fond du Lac, Winnebago and Fox River Valley Guernsey Breeders' Associations. The Outagamie consignors to this sale are O. H. Brettrick, W. L. Brettrick, Jamison Brothers, Robert Jamison, Victor N. Leppia, A. N. Schmitt and Wm. F. Schmitt. A number of out-of-state buyers are expected to be at the sale.

FOND DU LAC BREEDER PAYS $900 FOR COW

Greenville—Albert Schmitt has sold Polly of Hildale, a purebred Guernsey cow, 10 years of age, having a yearly production record 720 pounds of butter and 12,273.4 pounds milk, to Fred Ruppung of Fond du Lac for $900. Mr. Ruppung expects to take this cow over the fair circuit this fall for exhibition and prize-winning purposes.

CURE FOR BROODINESS

Save California Herds From Starvation

By A. H. FREDERICK
Sacramento, Calif.—California must break the hoof-and-mouth epidemic by June 1. Otherwise thousands of head of cattle, doomed to ranches devoid of pasturage, will die of starvation.

The struggle against the disease is as serious a war as any human conflict. Orders are issued from headquarters here, and obeyed with military snap and precision. Daily, or more frequent, communications are issued. Censorship is enforced.

Commander in chief is Dr. U. G. Houck, veteran of three previous outbreaks, assigned here by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Under him are consolidated state and federal forces assisted by business organizations and public service corporations.

The center of the outbreak is Merced county, with spots of infection scattered between San Francisco and Los Angeles. Disinfecting stations have been put up at practically all county lines where deputies see that no person, animal or vehicle crosses without disinfection.

At the same time the war against the disease is waged ruthlessly. One animal caught with an infection and the whole herd is slaughtered and buried. More than 55,000 head of cattle have thus met death, some of them costly prize animals.

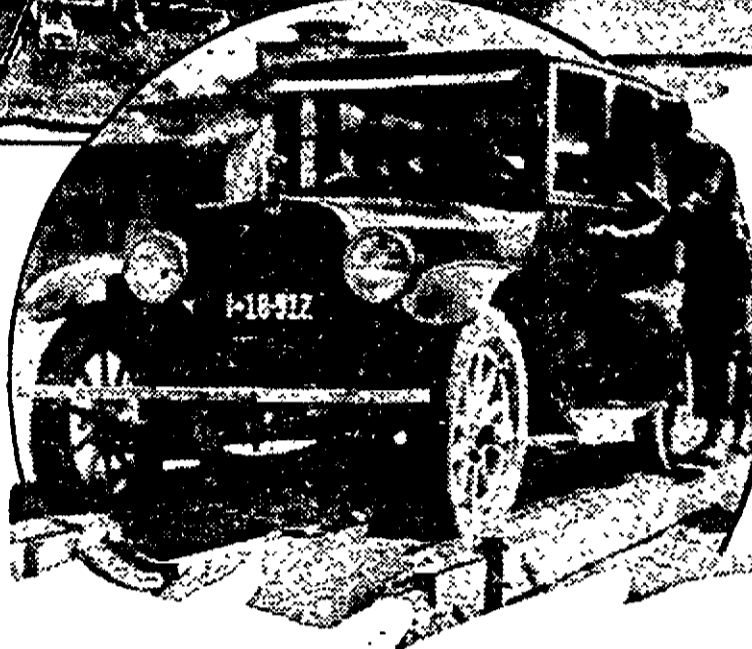

All the farmer gets in return for each animal slaughtered is $40 from the federal government and $40 from the state. Yet one prize herd of Herefords, valued at $425,000, each head worth in four or more figures, had to be put underground. Tillie Arcaria, former world champion milk cow, also worth $50,000 was one of this herd.

Cattle, sheep and hog owners are cooperating in every way with the authorities in their effort to end this dreaded war by June 1. California's sunshine is a helpful ally, because the germ cannot endure two hours if directly exposed to the sun's rays.

More than 200 scientific workers are on the firing line.

the balance of the states shipments coming from the northern district comprised of Outagamie and Brown counties. Leading shipping towns in the southern district were Sturtevant 370 cars, Racine 326 cars, Somers 463 cars, Franksville 334 cars and Kenosha 336 cars. In addition to the cabbage that was shipped for market there was cut for kraut purposes enough cabbage to make about twenty-five hundred more cars.

ORGANIZATION IS ONLY WAY OUT OF FARMER'S SLOUGH

Greenville Man Blames Low Prices of Farm Products to Lack of Cooperation

By W. F. WINSEY
Greenville—John Waffle says that in a financial way, "farmers are up against it." Hundreds of farmers are unable to pay their interest and taxes. Over $80,000 of taxes in Outagamie County are still unpaid and these figures do not include the taxes of a large number of farmers who borrowed money from the banks to pay their tax bills and have not yet redeemed the notes, he said. Everybody including the government is trying to help the farmer out of his present financial trouble by making it easy for him to borrow money. The average farmer does not want borrowed money or if he does he can get it at local banks providing he can give good security. The real trouble with the farmer is that when his products are ready for market, instead of putting a price on them that covers the cost of production, he is compelled by lack of the organization that all other producers have, to ask a possible buyer how much he will pay, and that when he goes to market to purchase the things he needs on the farm, a dealer dictates the price he must pay. In one case, he must take the price offered or keep his products, in the other case he must pay the price asked or leave the goods where he finds them.

In war times farmers got 18 and 20 cents for live pork, $4. and $5. a hundred for milk and 18 cents a pound for live calves. Now they are getting 6 cents for pork, 6 and 7 cents for calves, from $1.30 to $1.60 cents for milk and 17 cents for cheese.

"Prices are still high enough for consumers but farmers do not get the cost of production for their products. And the price of farm machinery is out of sight. A manure spreader that a few years ago could be bought for $100 now costs the farmer $180. The price of other farm machinery has raised in the same proportion."

"When farmers as a result of organization are paid a fair price for their products and buy the things they need at a fair profit added to the cost of production, they will be able to finance their own operations, pay their rents and taxes and meet their bills as they fall due. Notwithstanding the great interest of all classes of people in the welfare of farmers and the activity of legislators in devising measures of relief, farmers will not get and pay their fair prices and nothing will improve this financial condition on farms except the entry of farmers into the field of commerce as price-fighting factors."

MRS. ISABELLE HARDING GAINS 35 POUNDS ON TANLAC TREATMENT

Well Known New England Lady Gives Medicine Full Credit.

"My case had been given up as hopeless, so I do not hesitate to give Tanlac credit for saving my life," is the far-reaching statement of Mrs. Isabelle R. Harding, esteemed resident of 22 Lynwood St., Brookville, Mass.

"Furthermore," she continued "Tanlac did not stop at saving my life, for it increased my weight from ninety-seven pounds to one hundred and thirty-two and left me enjoying the best of health."

"Five years ago, while living in Seattle, Washington, I was taken so ill that no one thought I could live. Complications resulting from stomach trouble brought me down to my bed and I could not even walk two steps. In fact, I was so far gone that I thought my end had come, and I even went so far as to bid my husband and children goodbye. Nobody will ever know what I went through, for words just can't fully describe it."

"One day, after I had been in bed six weeks, my husband brought me a bottle of Tanlac. I finished this bottle feeling some better, so I got more and kept on improving until I had used ten bottles and then I was a well and happy woman. My recovery was so miraculous as to astonish those who knew how bad off I was. I am now enjoying the best of health and while I am sixty-nine I really don't feel over forty. I will be glad to have anyone, who is looking for something to bring back their health, call on me or write me. To me Tanlac is the greatest thing in the world."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

3 CARS WRECKED IN SUNDAY ACCIDENT

Driver of One Car Charged With Drunkenness—No One Injured

At least four automobiles—possibly five—figured in a smashup on the Oshkosh-Neenah road, about four miles south of Neenah, Sunday evening. James Krieger, employed by the Menasha Motor Car Co. driver of one of the cars in the wreck, was arrested, charged with driving a car while he was intoxicated, and he has been ordered to appear for trial in a Neenah court on Thursday afternoon.

Other car owners figuring in the collision are C. E. Walte, Neenah, and Thomas Sell, Neenah. Drivers of two other cars said to be in the wreck, drove away before they could be identified.

Krieger, it is said, attempted to pass Sell's car, going in the same direction, and sideswiped Sell's machine. Sell ran off the road and Walte, to avoid a collision, ran into a trolley pole, breaking it off. No one was seriously injured but 3 cars were wrecked. Two more cars were brushed by the three damaged machines but the owners did not stop.

HEARING TODAY ON NEW BRIDGE AT KAUKAUNA

A large number of persons, including city officials, interested in the new bridge, are expected to be present.

Garvey Improving Michael Garvey, former chief of police, who submitted to an operation in Chicago nearly a year ago, and who has been confined to his home practically all the time since his return to Appleton, is now able to visit his place of business but has not yet ventured down town. He has nearly regained his former weight.

Appleton's Infantile Death Rate Lowest In Cities Of Over 20,000

Appleton had the most favorable infant mortality rate of all Wisconsin cities of more than 20,000 population in the year 1923. It is apparent from a summary of birth and mortality statistics issued by the bureau of census of the department of commerce, Washington, D. C.

Last year there were only 50 deaths of children below one year for every 1,000 births as compared with 71 for the previous year. This was the lowest mortality rate of any city in the state, with the exception of Marinette which last year boasted as low a rate as 47 deaths of infants for every 1,000 births.

Appleton's infant mortality rate also was one lower than the lowest average rate of any state in the country. Washington's rate was 51. The highest state rate was 117 for cities of South Carolina, while Wisconsin average rate was 71, or 77 for cities and 66 for rural districts.

HIGH BIRTH RATE
Appleton's birth rate was 24.3, as compared with 23.0 in 1922, while the average for Wisconsin was 21.3 births per 1,000 population, or 23.2 for cities and 20.1 for rural districts. The highest average birth rate in the country was 34.8 for cities of Wyoming, where foreigners abound, and the lowest was 15.6 for rural districts of Montana, which are well populated by bachelor homesteaders and ranchers.

The death rate for Appleton last year was 13.5 per 1,000 population, as compared with 12.7 in 1922. Wisconsin's average rate was 10.7, or 11.8 for cities and 10.0 for rural districts. The highest state rate in the country was 20.3 for cities of Mississippi, and the lowest was 6.5 for rural districts of Idaho.

Deducting infant deaths in Appleton, one would conclude that Appleton's infant population is increasing at the rate of about 450 a year.

Following is a table of the death, birth and infant mortality rates of cities in Wisconsin:

Villain Of Stage Best Of Hubbies

Elsie Ferguson, Who Married One, Greeted with Kisses Instead of Hisses

Great Neck, N. Y.—If you must have a villain in your life, marry him! You may hiss the bewhiskered gent all you wish in the theater, but accept the word of Elsie Ferguson, beloved of all theatergoers in America, these stage villains make the best husbands.

Miss Ferguson's marriage to Frederick Worlock, the villain of her last play, "The Moonflower," still is making Broadway buzz. The marriage was a quiet one, with only a few intimate friends present. It took place in Miss Ferguson's home in this ultrafashionable New York suburban town. And here the villain and his bride are passing their honeymoon—the happiest couple in Great Neck.

"And why shouldn't stage villains make good husbands?" asks Miss Ferguson. "It seems to me there is every reason for them to make the best of husbands. They make no pretense of being perfect on the stage. They are thoroughly human. It would be very difficult indeed for the stage hero to be so faultless in private life.

"Stage villains have a broader viewpoint of life because of the very nature of their parts. And while, of course, there is utterly no connection between an actor's part on the stage and his conduct in private life, still, generally speaking, it is strange that many stage heroes with apparently every virtue have proved rather villainous husbands, and that villains on the stage, roundly hissed, were most lovable husbands once they took off their whiskers and left the stage door."

Besides, warns Miss Ferguson, consider the temptation that confronts the sleek matinee-idol. Most of them have five or six secretaries answering mash notes from infatuated women. And how about the villain? Is he bothered by stage-door Henriettas? He most certainly is not.

Miss Ferguson is good-naturedly peeved at the unexpected prominence of her marriage to the villainous Worlock. She believes that an actress' private life in entirely her own and that it doesn't concern the public in any way.

She laughed heartily when looking once more at the picture, showing Worlock with his crop of stage-whiskers, and she confidently believes many will think he failed to discard them when he left the stage of "The Moonflower" when that show closed.

The beautiful star is reluctant to talk about her private life. But she did say that in her opinion the only lasting relationship between any two people must be based on a firm companionship.

Worlock is an English actor. His only American appearances have been in "The Wheel of Life" and "The Moonflower," both of which starred Miss Ferguson.

Household Suggestions

TOMATOES FOR LUNCH
A delicious luncheon dish is made by cutting tomatoes in one-third inch slices and sprinkling with salt, pepper and flour, and sauteing in butter. Then served, a buttered poached egg on top of each.

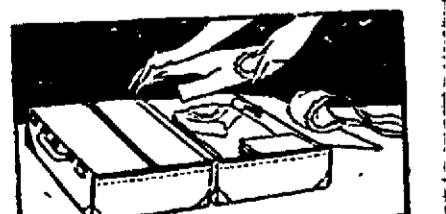

CRACKED EGGS
A cracked egg may be boiled with out losing any of the white if the crack is covered with salt.

COOKING FRUITS
When cooking fruits add the sugar when they are nearly cooked. If you cook sugar long with fruit it loses much of its sweetness.

BABY'S THINGS
When traveling with a baby, put everything you will need for him

where it is easily accessible and you can get it on a moment's notice.

EAT VEGETABLES
During the first days of spring it is well to include many vegetables in the diet, particularly those containing much iron and medicinal value, such as greens, spinach, asparagus, and the like. Vegetable dinners should be instituted once or twice a week.

TARTS AND PATTIES
A desirable meal will result if you brush puff-paste tarts or patties with white of egg or milk before putting them in the oven.

Roller Skating, Valley Queen, 12 Cor., Wed. and Sun. nites.

BOBBED STYLES—NO. 6 PINEAPPLE BOB FOR THE OLD-FASHIONED GIRL

The slightly old-fashioned girl who wants curls and the suggestion of much hair and yet wants to be bobbed, chooses the pineapple bob, illustrated here by Mary Jayne, musical comedy actress. Sort of a camouflage bob.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN (A Menu for the Stout and Thin) EAT AND— Lose Weight—Gain Weight

Three unsweetened stewed prunes with 1 tablespoon juice. 1 stuffed egg on toast, 2 lamb chops, 1 tablespoon green peas, 2 tablespoons sliced carrots, 1 tomato sliced on 1/2 head lettuce with 2 tablespoons diet dressing, 2 tablespoons strawberry fluff with 1 lady finger, 1 toasted bran muffin, 1 thin slice gluten bread, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1055. Protein, 261; fat, 273; carbohydrate, 521. Iron .0131 gram.

STUFFED EGG ON TOAST

One hard boiled egg, 2 mushroom caps, lemon juice, salt and pepper, 1 teaspoon butter 1/2 cup chopped spinach, 1 crisp piece whole wheat toast.

Cut egg in half lengthwise and remove yolk. Put yolk aside and use for some other member of the family. Melt butter and saute mushroom. Add one tablespoon finely chopped spinach, salt, pepper and lemon juice and stir over the fire until thoroughly mixed and very hot. Put remaining spinach over hot toast. Fill egg white with spinach mixture and arrange on spinach. Put in a hot oven for a few minutes to make hot and serve at once.

Total calories, 232. Protein, 46; fat, 102; carbohydrate, 54. Iron, .0138 gram.

Six large unsweetened stewed prunes, 1 cup cooked cereal with 1 tablespoon sugar and 1/4 cup cream, 1/4 cup creamed codfish with 1 hard boiled egg on toast, 1 cup cream of potato soup, 1 stuffed egg on toast, 4 button radishes, 1 cup cream of tomato soup, 2 lamb chops, 4 tablespoons green peas in butter, 2 tablespoons sliced carrots in cream, 1 tomato slice on 1/2 head lettuce with 2 tablespoons chocolate rice pudding with 1 tablespoon whipped cream, 4 tablespoons strawberry fluff with 2 lady fingers, 4 tablespoons croutons, 2 dinner rolls, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 pint whole milk.

Total calories, 3396. Protein, 413; fat, 1592; carbohydrate, 1334. Iron, .0218 gram.

Don't forget about long cooking for hard-boiled eggs. If the egg is cooked just below the boiling point for 20 minutes the yolk will be dry and crumbly and tender and fluffy and the white will be firm and tender and the whole quite digestible. But if the egg is boiled hard for 15 minutes the yolk will be hard and rubbery and the white tough and leathery and the whole most indigestible. And it will take a very fresh egg about 30 minutes to cook "hard."

The Tangle

I do not know why in the world, at this juncture, I did not tell Jack the whole story. Little Marquise, I think I would have done so if the money had not belonged to Karl Whitney. I knew I would have to tell him also that I had sold some of the pearls to get the money he thought my mother had given me to pay his debts. So I just kept still.

But there was one thing I was determined upon. Ruth should not be sacrificed. Of course she had done a terrible foolish thing in bringing the money to my house, but I suppose she too felt a great responsibility in keeping the money around, knowing it belonged to Karl Whitney and would have to be sent back to Struble & Struble the moment I came home.

"Look here, Jack," I said, "you must not speak to me in the way you have just spoken. I will not be sworn at."

"I did not swear at you," said Jack miserably, "but, Leslie, you must understand that there is something here you know nothing about. You must also know that Ruth Ellington would not have made this money in her possession rightfully."

"I know nothing of the kind, Jack. I know Ruth is making money hand over fist and until I have heard her side of the matter I shall certainly not condemn her."

"All right. I will wait until you have had an interview with her before I take any steps in the matter."

"Oh, I probably will never tell you what she says, Jack."

"What do you mean by that?" "Just what I say. You understand English, do you not?"

"I understand English perfectly, Leslie, but I do not understand you. I have never before heard you speak in such an ugly way. Do you mean to tell me that you expect me to go on without hearing an explanation of this matter if you do not choose to give it to me?"

"Certainly I do. You would have gone on if you hadn't happened to come upon Ruth while she was depositing the money in the safe. The longer I live the more I subscribe to that old adage about ignorance and bliss."

"Do you mean to tell me, Jack, that you have not done anything nor that your friends have done anything since we have been married, that you have not told me? Seems to me you have forgotten that you have refused to throw any light upon the birth and parentage of John Alden Prescott, Junior, because you have wanted to shield Sydney Carton.

"Well, Jack, in this matter, if there is anything to shield, I may choose to shield my friend, as you choose to shield yours."

Jack could say nothing. Little Marquise, but then and there on the first night of my return home, he went out and slammed the door. Although it is lunch time and nearly 24 hours later, I have not seen him since.

I wish you had left me some letters, Little Marquise. I wish I were sure that you and your unmarried lover were even more miserable than I. As it is now I am sure marriage kills love for I feel this moment that I hate Jack and I presume he also hates me.

This is what I wanted to tell you, Little Marquise, and if you were in the land of the living instead of being many years dead, I think I should go to you and ask, 'What shall I do?'

Adventures Of The Twins

THE LAND OF THE DOOFUNNIES
"Hello there, kiddle!" said a voice, and lo and behold, there appeared on a pussy willow branch, the Fairy Queen herself.

"Hello," called the Twins happily. "we didn't know you were here."

"Oh, I'm everywhere," laughed the dear little lady. "I've just been down to the dingy dell to watch my fairy gardeners put in some more violet plants for spring. On my way home I passed an old stump, and stopping a minute I heard the funniest sounds. I have to laugh when I think of it."

"What are they?" cried Nick eagerly.

"Do you really want to know?" cried the Fairy Queen teasingly. "My, my, what a curious little boy! But there! I'm only fooling. That's why I'm here my dears."

"When I heard all those funny sounds, I said to myself, 'I'll have to send Nancy and Nick to this place down the old stump, for they will have lots of fun. So I came to lead the magic green shoes with you again, and start you off on a new adventure. Do you want to go?'"

"Oh, yes, yes, yes!" cried the Twins together. "What is the funny place called? May we go right away?"

"Yes, if you like," answered the queen, flying down to the ground and slipping the magic shoes on their feet. "But I'll tell you a little about it first. The place is called the Land of the Doofunnies."

"Doofunnies?" exclaimed the Twins. "What are they?"

"Just odds and ends," said the queen. "Things people make and then forget about. After they grow up they wonder whatever became of this and that they had when they were children. They don't know that there is a special place where these things go. They just slip off when nobody is looking. But the place is there just the same, and the way to get to it is down the old hollow stump beside the button-wood tree."

"Odds and ends?" puzzled Nancy. "What are they?"

The Fairy Queen laughed. "Oh, they are all odd, the people of Doofunny Land and the sometimes they are ends. Mister Fuzz Wuzz, the pipe-cleaner man, runs the place, and his subjects are the clothes-pin doll, and the napkin rabbit and the wooden sailor, and the potato-horse, and the peanut boy, and the ginger-bread man, and the pin-cushion lady, and the stocking cat, and the little tin mouse and the rubber bow-wow that whistles. Besides there are a lot more. The cut-out people and Teddy-bear and Radio Rex and the wooden clowns, and animals from the Humpty Dumpty Circus."

"Sounds grand to me," said Nick, turning a somersault. "Let's go right away, Nancy, May we?"

"Yes, run right along," nodded the Fairy Queen. "Tell Mister Fuzz Wuzz that I sent you, Goodbye!"

Away went the Twins.

Brass Plaques Beautify Home

Among the most delightful backgrounds which are eminently suited to brass, the charm of buff color cannot be denied. It throws up the gleaming metal into striking effect and yet constitutes a perfect harmony without any irritating glare.

Again, these brass plaques are admirably at one with certain shades of blues and browns, and surely nothing is more pleasing than using them with dark paneling and furniture. Some five or six old brass plaques were recently the means of introducing a most picturesque effect into a dining room which was beamed and furnished in oak in its natural silver state, unstained and unpolished. The effect was charming. The brilliant brassware seemed to emphasize all the mellow beauty of the natural wood.

Finally found health in Kellogg's Bran after suffering long with constipation

Mr. Patch writes that Kellogg's Bran "solved his problem." It has solved the problem of constipation—mild and chronic—for thousands of others. It has brought relief when all else has failed because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read Mr. Patch's letter:

Dear Sirs:
I have been a constant sufferer from constipation and have wondered what was the cause of it. I have tried about all the cereals I could think of, and finally tried Kellogg's Bran. This solved my problem. I feel 100 per cent better and I owe it to your Bran. Thank you very kindly for this great cereal. I am Very respectfully,
Chester C. Patch,
761 Main St., Greenwood, Mass.
For the permanent relief of constipation, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestines. It rids them of the dangerous poisons that lead to other diseases. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumpled, is delicious with milk or cream. You will like its nut-like flavor—so different from ordinary, tasteless bran. Sprinkle it over the cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Eat it in Kellogg's Bran muffins, griddle cakes and many other wonderful recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumpled, is made in Battle Creek and is served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. It is sold by all grocers.

SO BIG

By Edna Ferber

Then, without warning, would come the icy Lake Michigan wind, nipping the tender shoots with fiendish fingers. There should have been hotbeds and coldframes, forcing-hills, hand-boxes. There were almost none.

These things Selma saw, but not quite clearly. She went about her housework, now dreamily, now happily. Her physical condition swayed her mood. Sometimes, in the early autumn, when the days became cooler, she would go to where Pervus and Jan were working in the fields in the late afternoon gathering the produce for that night's trip to market. She would stand there, a bit of sewing in her hand, perhaps, the wind ruffling her hair, whipping her skirts, her face no longer pale, tilted a little toward the good sun like a lovely tawny flower. Sometimes she sat perched on a pile of empty sacks, or on an up-ended crate, her sewing in her hand. She was happiest at such times—most content—except for the pang she felt at sight of the great dark spots on the blue of Pervus's work-shirt where the sweat stained it.

She had come out so one autumn afternoon. She was feeling particularly gay, buoyant. In one of his rare hours of leisure Roelf Pool had come to help her with her peony roots which Pervus had brought her from Chicago for fall planting. Roelf had dug the trench, deep and wide mulched it with cow manure, banked it. They were to form a double row up the path to the front of the house, and in her mind's eye Selma already saw them blooming white spring should come, shaggy balls of luscious pink. Now Roelf was lending a hand to Pervus and Jan as they bent over the late beets and radishes. It was a day all gold and blue and scarlet; warm for the season with a ripe melon warmth like yellow chartreuse. There were stretches of sea-black loam where the vegetables had been uprooted. Bunches of them, string-tied, lay ready for gathering into baskets. Selma's eye was gladdened by the clear coral of radishes flung against the rich black loam.

"A jewel, Pervus," she cried. "A jewel in an Edna's ear."

"What?" said Pervus, looking up, amiable but uncomprehending. But the boy smiled. Selma had left him that book for his own when she went away. Suddenly Selma stooped and picked up one of the scarlet and green clusters tied with its bit of string. Laughing, she whipped out a hairpin and fastened the bunch in her hair just behind her ear. An absurd thing to do, and childish. It should have looked as absurd as it was, but it didn't. Instead it was like a great crimson flower there. Her cheeks were flushed with the hot sun. Her fine dark hair was wind-blown and a little loosened, her dress open at the throat. Her figure was fuller, her breast had a richer curve, for the child was four months on the way. She was laughing. At a little exclamation from Roelf, Pervus looked up, as did Jan. Selma took a slow rhythmic step, another, her arms upraised, a provocative lovely beauteous little figure there in the fields under the hot blue sky Jan. Steen wiped the sweat from his brown face, a glow in his eyes.

"You are like a calendar!" cried Roelf. "On the wall in the parlour." A cheap but vivid and not unlovely picture of a girl with cherries in her hair, it hung in the Pool farmhouse.

Pervus DeJong showed one of his rare storms of passion. Selma had not seen that blaze of blue in his eyes since the night, months ago, in the Pool's kitchen. But that blaze had not been a hot and burning blue, like the sky of day. This was a milder blue, a chill and freezing thing, like the steel-blue of ice in the sun.

"Take them things out of your hair now! Take shame to yourself!" He strode over to her and snatched the things from her hair and threw them down and ground them into the soft earth with his heavy heel. A lung coil of her fine dark hair came rippling over her shoulder as he did so. She stood looking at him, her eyes wide, dark, enormous in her face now suddenly white.

His wrath was born of the narrow insular mind that fears gossip. He knew that the hired man would tell through the length and width of High Prairie how Pervus DeJong's wife pinned red radishes in her hair and danced in the fields like a loose woman.

Selma had turned, fled to the house. It was their first serious quarrel. For days she was hurt, ashamed, moody. They made it up, of course. Pervus was contrite, abject almost. But something that belonged to her girlhood had left her that day.

During that winter she was often hideously lonely. She never got over her hunger for companionship. Here she was, a gregarious and fun-loving creature, buried in a snow-bound Illinois prairie farmhouse with a husband who looked upon conversation as a convenience, not a pastime. She learned much that winter about the utter sordidness of farm life. She rarely saw the Pools; she rarely saw anyone outside her own little household.

The front room—the parlour—was usually bitterly cold but sometimes she used to slip in there, a shawl over her shoulders, and sit at the frosty window to watch for a wagon to go by, or a chance pedestrian up the road. She did not pity herself, nor regret her step. She felt physically, pretty well for a child-bearing woman; and Pervus was tender, kindly, sympathetic. If not always understanding, she struggled to keep up the small decencies of existence. She loved the glow in Pervus's eyes when she appeared with a bright ribbon, a fresh collar, though he said nothing and perhaps she only fancied that he noticed. Once or twice she had walked the mile and a half of slippery road to the Pool's and had sat in Meertje's warm bright bustling kitchen for comfort. It seemed to her incredible that a little more than a year ago she had first stepped into this kitchen in her modish brown lady's-cloth dress, muffled in wraps, cold but elated, interested, ready for adventure, surprise, discomfort—anything. And now here she was in that same kitchen, amazingly, unbelievably Mrs. Pervus DeJong, truck farmer's wife, with a child soon to be born. And where was adventure now? And where was life? And where the love of chance bred in her by her father?

The two years following Dirk's birth were always somewhat vague in Selma's mind. Like a dream in which horror and happiness are inextricably mixed. The boy was a plump hardy infant who envied him self cheerfully in whatever spot Selma happened to deposit him. He had his father's blonde exterior, his mother's brunette vivacity. At two he was a child of average intelligence, sturdy physique, and marked good humour. He almost never cried.

He was just twelve months old when Selma's second child—a girl—was born dead. Twice during those two years Pervus fell victim to his so-called rheumatic attacks following the early spring planting when he was often forced to stand in water up to his ankles. He suffered intensely and during his illness was as treacherous as a road-bull. Selma understood why half of High Prairie was bent and twisted with rheumatism—why the little Dutch Reformed Church on Sunday mornings resembled a shrine to which sick and crippled pilgrims came.

HORTONVILLE WINS CLOSE CONTEST FROM KIMBERLY

Hortonville Sunday afternoon defeated Kimberly, 21 to 20. In one of the closest games ever played in the Kromer Homeplayer league. The contest was a slugging first few innings, but creditable fielding on both sides prevented the scores from mounting still higher. Both teams have a lot of new material on their lineups.

PAPERMAKERS IDLE MEMORIAL DAY BUT PLAY PAIRS SUNDAY

Pennant Chase Promises to Be Close Between Four Leaders This Year

Papermakers will be idle on Memorial day but are scheduled to invade Menasha Sunday, June 1. Green Bay which defeated Appleton Sunday afternoon meets the Falls Friday. This contest will show the comparative strength of the three teams and will indicate the probable chances the Papermakers have against Rush's tribe.

Menasha has won three straight games since the season opened, and is aiming at another pennant. Competition this year promises to be considerably closer than last, however, for Green Bay, Sheboygan and Appleton all have stronger teams than ever before, and the Falls will have their work cut out for them.

Cold and wet weather have been chiefly responsible for the smallness of the attendance at games here this year. Interest in the home team is not as deep as it should be, but no doubt as soon as warm weather sets in, the fans will turn out to support their club. Dave Smith, new Appleton manager, has built up a team second to none in the loop, and with proper support has an excellent chance of putting this city in the front ranks of state baseball.

COMBINED LOCKS BEATS PRISONERS

Combined Locks Paper Co., baseball team Saturday afternoon defeated and snappy game, 5 to 4, from the Wisconsin State reformatory club at Green Bay. This was the first contest played by the Millmen this year, but the players came through in mid-season form and showed the prisoners a lively time.

Frank Vandenhoeve pitched the first four innings for the Millmen, when he was replaced by Marty Lamer who managed the club. Lou Welhouse was at the receiving end. The Reformatory battery was Peterson and Bartha.

Battling Reith was the hero of the day, connecting with two safe hits when they were most needed.

The score by innings:
Combined Locks 1 4 0 0 0 0 0 0 5
Reformatory ... 0 2 1 0 0 0 0 1 4

OSHKOSH NETTERS PLAY LAWRENTIANS

Oshkosh Normal Wednesday afternoon will send four tennis stars here to engage the Lawrence players in three singles and one doubles match. The games were postponed last week because of wet courts.

Hogle, McKeon and Linner will represent Oshkosh in the singles matches, and Collier and McKeon are entrants in the doubles. The games will start at 2:30 P. M. on the Lawrence courts.

Marquette is scheduled to play the Lawrentians here Friday morning. These games also were postponed from last week.

QUESTIONS

1. If there are less than two men out and a runner on third, and the batsman interferes with a play at the plate on such runner, who is called out?—R. 6.
2. If there is a runner on first, and the batter hits a home run, and the runner on first fails to touch third base on his way to the plate, does that affect the status of the batsman?—E. B.
3. Has the pitcher a right to take a position off the rubber, and feint a delivery of the ball to the batsman?—R. T.

ANSWERS

1. The runner coming home from third should be called out for the batter's interference with less than two out.
2. The failure of a preceding runner to touch a base, and who is declared out for so doing, in no way affects the status of a succeeding runner.
3. The pitcher positively has no right to be off the rubber, and feint a delivery of the ball to the batsman. Such an act is a balk.

Tilden's Pupil

SANDY WEINER

Bill Tilden, who stumped his toe on a folding typewriter and thereby lost his amateur standing in tennis is grooming Sandy Weiner, 16-year-old Philadelphia boy, as his successor. Weiner has developed a typical Tilden style on the courts and seems to possess much of the champion's great ability.

Some day he may be the nation's champion—but he must remember not to write pieces for the papers or magazines, for that would make him a notorious professional as the lawn tennis officials see the matter.

WELL, I see where the boys finally go to the bonus and I guess they weren't any more surprised than if they'd heard Pop Geers had been pulled in for juvenile delinquency.

This just goes to prove that anything can happen and maybe the girls on Mars don't like bobbed hair after all.

Handing the doughboys a little spending cash was a horrible shock to the finer sensibilities of Wall Street gents who argued that patriotism and greenbacks was out of place as a trained seal act at a Sunday chrisening.

Patriotism is a sacred institution and it's scandalous to mention it in the same scolded breath with money, especially since the money doesn't go to Wall Street.

You remember what a terrible howl the Saints of Wall Street put up when the boys down in Washington built a flock of tin airplanes that wouldn't fly and a mees of wooden boats that wouldn't float, don't you? ...So do I.

It makes a difference whose ox is smacked on the beezers. It's all right to graft in stylish millions but if you tell the french graduates, a few patriots iron men it's an insult to the country's fair name, if any.

Practically all the dollar-a-year barnacles whose only regret was that they had but one pair of spurs to wear out on executive desks were against the bonus.

And that's the first time the dollar-a-year drawbears ever did anything good for their country. When they said the bonus was all wrong the rest of the world knew it was all right.

The Wall Street angle on the soldiers was this: The navy took 'em over but not for nearly enough.

4 BLUE ATHLETES IN MIDWEST MEET

Lawrence Will Send Hippke, Kotal, Cooke and Rehbein to Beloit

Four Lawrence athletes are working hard this week in preparation for the Midwest track and field meet at Beloit over the week end, which may give them a chance to enter for the Olympic tryouts at Ann Arbor. It has been arranged chiefly through the efforts of Tommy Mills, Beloit coach, that all athletes who place in the Midwest meet will be eligible for the tryouts, and this has added great incentive than ever before to win.

Hippke, Lawrence weight man, probably will be entered in the shot put and discus. Rehbein will take part in the 440-yard and 880-yard runs. Kotal in the high jump and Cooke in the hurdles. The Lawrentians are not banking on running off with the meet, but will enter chiefly for the experience to be had in a carnival of such importance.

ROD AND REEL

M. J. V. FOSE

"HINKS"

A small loop tied to the end of the line about three inches in length will save a lot of time in "swapping" lures and hooks. Thread the end through the eyelet and then pass the lure or hook through the loop and pull tight.

"Stretching" a cast tires the arm so that the thumb will not perform properly on the spool of the reel and should be avoided as it usually results in a backlash.

A landing net in the boat is worth a dozen on shore and it will save many a rod tip and fish in a season of fishing.

An effective lure that really catches fish can be rigged up with a spinner, a weedless bass fly and a small strip of pork rind about 1 1/2 inches long. The strip has all the "wiggle" and "kick" that a game fish likes when it is retrieved.

A green back, white belled, under-water Drogue is very effective if used deep enough and will "snake" in many a wall eyed pike.

"Tutts Devil Bug" is the lure to use on a fly rod when the "Pinkies" are biting good if you want to enjoy all the "kick" of the sport with a thousand thrills.

Always start retrieving your lure the minute it hits the water if you are after fish.

A few frogs can always be found under the boats at the boat landing. A landing net comes in handy to pick them up. Try it sometime.

El Paso, Tex.—Ray Long, welter-weight champion of the southwest, and Harvey Thorpe of Kansas City, were matched for a bout in the Juneteenth hall, June 5.

Memphis, Tenn.—Johnny Carlson, Columbus, O., bested Gene Martelli, Memphis welterweight in eight rounds.

CONNIE MACK READY TO HEDGE ON CLAIM HE'LL TAKE SECOND

Athletics' Manager Based Prediction on Hopes for Good Pitching

Philadelphia — Connie Mack is about ready to hedge a bit on his prediction that the Athletics would finish second.

In making such a prediction, Mack based his hopes on much improved pitching. So far his club hasn't got it. Rommel is the only pitcher who has been effective.

After winning three straight, Rommel was knocked out in his fourth start by the Boston Red Sox. Lee Fohl's club, while it doesn't have much speed, packs a wallop and will make trouble for many a pitcher this summer.

"I have four pitchers, Harris, Naylor, Helmach and Hasty, who have enough stuff to be winning pitchers in the American League, yet so far none has come through consistently.

"Taylor's great start last season caused me to believe that he had arrived. I am still banking on him to have a great year. Helmach has far more stuff than some of the pitchers in the American League. Hasty and Harris should win. The latter has the best curve ball in the American League.

"Rommel seems all set for a big year, but he must have assistance. Unless my pitching comes through for me, as I feel it should, my club may have considerable trouble in making good my prediction that we would finish second.

"However, neither one game nor one month makes a season, so I am hopeful the A's pitchers will soon hit their stride."

Easterners Outpoint West, 50 Games To 47, In First Major Series

Final Quartet of Games Wins Verdict in Favor of Atlantic Coast in American League.

Eastern teams outpointed the western major league clubs in the first interseasonal series, 50 games to 47. Road teams lost the decision in each league. In the National the western representatives playing at home won 27 contests and lost 25. Western visitors to the American league fields in the east were turned back 23 games to 20.

The final quartet of games in the American league swung the verdict to the Atlantic coast when the four invaders lost their farewell games Monday. New York evened its series with Detroit, 8 to 2; Boston noosed Cleveland in a hurricane of hits and runs, 10 to 9; Washington took the series from Chicago with an 8 to 2 verdict, and the Athletics won their third consecutive game from the Browns, 2 to 1.

St. Louis won from Cincinnati, 4 to 3, in the only National league contest scheduled and hurled Pittsburgh and Boston, landing in fifth place. Fonseca, Red second baseman broke an arm when sliding into second base. Bunched hits off Luque in the first two innings gave the Cards a lead which the Reds could not reach.

Two aspects of baseball drama centered upon second base in the world's champions' lineup. Aaron Ward's string of 532 consecutive games, the second longest in major league history, terminated when injuries received Sunday prevented him from playing. Ernie Johnson who threw by broke into the lineup, hit two home runs, a double and single in four times at bat and fielded superbly.

Babe Ruth, making his eleventh homer and a double and fielding well, and Joe Bush who held the slugging Tigers to five hits were overshadowed by the spectacular substitute.

Eddie Rommel bested VanGilder in a pitching duel in which the Browns and Athletics made four hits each. The game was played in the season's record time of one hour and 12 minutes. The hard hitting Browns made only 1 hit off Meeker, Helmach and Rommel in their three straight defeats.

Ogden, recently obtained from the Athletics by Washington, held the White Sox to seven hits while his mates battered Thurston. Nine pitchers were included in the 34 players used in the Red Sox-Indian game which was Boston's sixteenth victory in 20 games. Matt, a Cleveland pinchhitter, scored two runs ahead of him with a homer.

New York—Gene Tunney, American lightweight champion, will defend his title in 15 rounds with Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia in Brooklyn on June 24.

Boston—Johnny Sheppard of Woburn won a decision over Abe Attell Goldstein, bantamweight champion, after ten rounds. The title was not involved.

LAKE IN RAVINE IS NUISANCE TO EAST END PEOPLE

Filled Street Closes Outlet and Stagnant Water Perils
Health

Residents on the east side of the city are discouraged over a nuisance which exists at Washington and Catherine streets and from which there does not seem to be any relief.

The nuisance consists of a little lake which has formed in a ravine behind the houses on the south side of Washington street near Catherine street, and especially after every rainfall, this ravine is filled with several feet of water. After it has stood for a time, the water becomes so stagnant that the odor is terrific, residents say.

Water in the ravine is at present five to seven feet deep, so deep that a boy almost drowned in it recently when he was pushed off a log. A chicken coop also has been washed into the pond.

COMPLAIN TO STATE
The trouble arises from the street that was filled in at this corner by the city a dozen years ago. Failure to put in a drain tile left the ravine without an outlet. There have been times that the water stood so high in the ravine that fire engines have been stationed there for hours at a time to pump the water out. Residents have complained to the state board of health, but received little encouragement for relief.

R. M. Connelly, city engineer, when approached on the matter by a representative of this newspaper, said the situation to him is relatively new, since he has not yet been in Appleton a year. An attempt has been made at times to abate the nuisance by having a fire engine pump the water out. Conditions this spring have not been so intolerable as last year. Although there has been more rain, but the very frequency of the rains kept the water from becoming so stagnant as last year.

Apparently, the ravine bottom is deeper than the sewers on this street, the engineer said, and thus it is impossible to drain the water off through these channels.

Two alternatives are suggested by the engineer to remedy the situation. One is to tunnel the hill, which would be at considerable expense, the other would be to fill the bottom of the ravine up to the level of the sewers so that the water will drain off.

LOCAL INVENTOR PATENTS "BEVERAGE CONSUMER"

Among the inventors who recently obtained patents, according to a list made public by Young & Young, Milwaukee patent solicitors, is Ernest H. Mills of Appleton, who has invented a device for consuming beverages. Neither the telephone directory nor the street directory contains the name of an Ernest H. Mills.

Sing At Initiation

Henry Tillman, J. J. Langenberg, Peter Jacobs, Charles Feuerstein and Gustave Keller were in Sturgeon Bay on Sunday where a class of 60 candidates was initiated into the Sturgeon Bay court of the Catholic Order of Foresters. 80 GOPHERS BITE DUST AFTER ONE DAY'S ASSAULT

Farmers are waging war against their ancient enemy, the gopher. Two Grand Chute young men, Leo Gillepie and Harry Zimmer, last week combined business with pleasure by going on a Gopher hunt. Attacking the gophers' retreats at stone piles, fences, sand beds and roadways, they killed 80 gophers in one day.

KIMBERLY ENGAGES BAGG AS GEOLOGIST

The village of Kimberly which is about to put in a new waterworks system has engaged Dr. R. M. Bagg of Lawrence college as its geologist. The bids for drilling the well are to be opened Wednesday, June 4. Dr. Bagg was the geologist employed at the time the village of Little Chute built its waterworks plant.

PLENTY OF MONEY TO PAY ROTARY CONVENTION COST

Funds in the convention treasury of the Rotary club will more than take care of the expenses of the Tenth district Rotary conference held here in April, according to reports made at a meeting of the executive committee and chairman of various arrangements committees of the gathering, at a dinner at Hotel Northern Thursday evening.

Some bills still are outstanding and the exact outcome therefore could not be learned. All of these will be paid by Monday and a final report on finances then will be prepared. It is known, however, that there will be no deficit.

FLANAGANS WILL ATTEND MEETING OF ASYLUM HEADS

Thomas Flanagan, superintendent, and Mrs. Flanagan, matron of the Outagamie County asylum, will attend the annual convention of the State Association of Trustees, Superintendents and Matrons of public asylums in Janesville June 3, 4 and 5. Seventy-three reservations have been received by the Janesville Chamber of Commerce. It is expected, however, that the attendance will reach 125. Cards notifying the delegates of the hotel at which they will be housed have been mailed.

Auto Wheels Locked
The wheels of two automobiles became locked at Midway and Oneida streets Saturday evening, yet a serious accident was averted. The accident occurred at about 5:50 in the evening, when H. E. Miller, 331 Appleton street, was driving east on Midway to turn north on Oneida street. The front wheel became locked with that of a car driven by Carl Walker, 632 First street, Menasha. The left front fender of the Appleton car was bent, while the left front wheel of the Menasha car was broken.

RELIGION COUNCIL MEETS WEDNESDAY

Appleton Council of Religious Education will hold its annual meeting at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Officers for the coming year will be elected at that time.

The council also will hear the report of Dr. John R. Denyes, director of the weekday religious school. The classes concluded their work for the season last week, after a highly satisfactory year. It is understood that Dr. Denyes will make recommendations for changes in the plans for the school which will start next fall.

LAWYERS GIVE OPINIONS ON PROCEDURE CHANGES

Appleton lawyers have received questionnaires from the Wisconsin Bar association which is conducting a survey of changes desired in the judicial regulations of Wisconsin. Lawyers throughout the state are being asked to answer questions concerning changes in qualifications of judges, juries, lawyers and procedure in the organization of courts.

Store Rearranged

Schlafer Hardware company has about completed the rearrangement of its showcases and tables which provide for a wide view of the main entrance to the new elevator in the rear. The showcases and tables on the west side run and north and south and those on the east side east and west. The plan is tentative and will be made permanent if satisfactory.

Install New Front

Workmen Monday morning began tearing out the old store front of the building occupied by Novelty Cleaners, east College-ave, and owned by J. E. Woehler. A new front will be installed. It is expected the work will be completed in about two weeks and in the meantime the Novelty Cleaners will continue operating.

WOMAN'S GREATEST ASSET

Health is woman's greatest asset. Upon it depends charm, beauty, power to attract others, happiness and success, and it is what really makes life worth living. Thousands of women suffer from headaches, backache, nervousness, mental depression and mysterious pains, who could find immediate relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which is made from roots and herbs. For nearly half a century this medicine has been recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills. Advertisement.
